Not Spending as Much

In recent decades, government spending on infrastructure has been about two-thirds of its peak levels in the 1960's.

Total government spending on infrastructure as a percentage of gross domestic product includes federal, state and local.

Sources: Bureau of Economic Analysis; Economy.com